Overview:

Leonardo da Vinci is the Western world's icon and example for creativity and curiosity. His inventions, sketches, and art continue to inspire and excite us five hundred years after his death. He is amazing in perceiving and accepting no intellectual boundaries. Discovering science to understand art, and discovering art to understand science, his skills and interests were boundless. He is perhaps the historical figure with the greatest and most insatiable curiosity. This workshop will explore, celebrate, and discover Leonardo da Vinci and consider how he might approach today's challenges, technologies, and opportunities.

Although Leonardo produced some 20,000 pages of notes, drawings, and sketches – of which only some 7,000 have been found – he never published any of his work. Although recognized as one of the world's master painters and artists, he produced only 20 or so paintings – and several of the most well known were never delivered or made available to the public during his lifetime.

There are thousands of books on Leonardo da Vinci – some of them very good. There are dozens of museums – most in Europe. Utah has a very unique and special Leonardo connection via The Leonardo – a unique facility for art, invention, and science in downtown Salt Lake City! www.theleonardo.org

Workshop Plan:

This workshop is driven by the interests, questions, experience, and curiosity of the 'audience'. We will celebrate and foster curiosity. Our guide is Leonardo – generally recognized as the most insatiably curious figure we 'know'.

Words by Leonardo:

"Ostinato Rigore" - persistent rigor; "Saper Vedere" - knowing how to see

"I am not to be accused of idleness."

"The desire to know is natural to good men".

"Here is revealed the experience that gives birth to certainty."

"Learning without a liking for it stills the mind and retains nothing that it takes in."

"I am not poor. He is poor, rather, who desires many things."

"All our knowledge has its origin in our perceptions."

"Experiments never deceive. It is our judgment that deceives itself because it expects results which experiments refuse."

"The grandest of all books, I mean the Universe, stands open before our eyes."

"... deceptive opinion by means of which...a living is made from fools." (on astrologers)

"Simplicity is the ultimate sophistication."

"Constancy. Not who begins but he who perseveres."

"Intellectual passion drives out sensuality."

"There shall be wings! If the accomplishment be not for me, 'tis for some other....

Once you have tasted flight you will walk the Earth with your eyes toward the sky. For there you have been and there you long to return."

"The soup is getting cold..." last writing

"Tell me, did anything get done?"...last words?

Words about Leonardo

" Driven by curiosity, he worked for the shear pleasure of understanding the world. We want answers; he posed questions..." Stefan Klein

"Leonardo was always short of paper."

Michael White

"...never, never underestimate Leonardo da Vinci."

Mark E Rosheim

"...the sole evidence of a security leak from the future appears to be the notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci."

Arthur C Clarke

"Leonardo formed such heretical ideas that no religion could be reconciled with them; evidently he wanted to be a philosopher more than a Christian." Giorgio Vasari

"Mystery to Leonardo was a shadow, a smile and a finger pointing into darkness."
"...the most relentlessly curious man in history."

Kenneth Clark
